

Options for Credit Recovery

Summer School

- Description: Many required academic courses are offered during a three-week summer school program. Students typically take first semester courses in the morning and second semester courses in the afternoon; however, this is subject to change based upon county policy.
- Procedure: Registration for Fulton County Summer school will occur after spring break. There will be detailed instructions on how to register available in the counseling office then.
- Cost: $225 ($180 for free meal students) per semester course for in-system students.
- Information for Summer 2012 will be available after spring break.

Online Courses

- Description: There are many course options available to students via Fulton County Virtual School (FCVS) or Georgia Virtual School (GAVS). Typically, students receive and submit their assignments electronically.
- Procedure: Student must pick up an online course request packet in the counseling office. Student and parent complete packet and submit it to the counseling office. Counselor will then review the request and notify student of the procedure to enroll in the online course.
- Cost: FCVS ($250/$200 for free/reduced lunch students); GAVS ($300)
- Information is available in the counseling office.

Retake course at Centennial High School during the regular school day

- Description: If a student has space in his/her schedule during the regular school day, he/she can take the course(s) at Centennial.
- Procedure: Indicate on the schedule verification form (the registration form for the following school year) the chosen course(s) to be taken at Centennial.
- Cost: Free

PLATO

- Description: PLATO is an online credit recovery system offered to students. PLATO classes require students to work on their course from home. There is no class period set aside for PLATO courses during the day at Centennial. Students are placed on a first-come, first-served basis with seniors getting top priority.
- Procedure: Complete a PLATO request form and submit it to the counseling office. The counselor will either approve or deny the request. If approved, student will be added to a list to await placement. The Graduation Coach will notify student when placed and student will complete a PLATO contract.
- Cost: Free
